JOURNALISM EXPERIENCE

Retraction Watch

Reporting Intern

New York, NY

Sept. 2026–Present

- Report and publish news on research integrity and academic publishing, including the first strike in The Lancet's 200-year history over staff pay at parent publisher Elsevier.
- Built the strike story from a union organizer interview, ballot results, a regulatory ruling, an open letter and RELX's annual report, setting the dispute against Elsevier's £1.04 billion adjusted operating profit and 38% margin.

Forbes

Editorial Intern, Wealth, Valuations & SportsMoney

Jersey City, NJ

June 2026–Aug. 2026

- Researched, wrote and updated profiles and net worth estimates for 17 members of the 2026 Forbes 400, tracing ownership and assets by conducting original reporting, analyzing SEC filings including Form 4s, and tax records, nonprofit filings and property records.
- Reported on funding- and valuation-driven net worth moves, including Helsing's new $18 billion valuation, translating deal terms, cap tables and market data into net-worth and enterprise-value analysis on deadline.
- Turned around breaking corporate and tech stories in under 45 minutes as part of Forbes' breaking news desk, including Apple's trade-secrets lawsuit against OpenAI and OpenAI's launch of a workplace AI agent.
- Researched public and private companies using earnings reports, investor presentations and industry databases, and fact-checked figures and company claims against primary sources.
- Landed an exclusive interview with Canva cofounder and CEO Melanie Perkins on the company's philanthropic pledge, alongside interviews and reporting with founders, executives and investors.

NYU Business & Economic Reporting
